How to use this journal

Before you start

- Check your state's journal law first. Some states, such as California, require one active sequential journal with specific fields and rules on how it is kept. Confirm a printed, bound copy of this template meets your state rule before you rely on it as your official journal.
- Some states require a journal only for certain acts, or only for remote online notarizations. Others just recommend one. The state guides at mobilenotarylist.com/states list the rule and link the statute.

For every act

- Fill in one numbered entry per act, in order, at the time of the notarization.
- Record how you identified the signer. Write the ID issuer, number and expiry, or the credible witness's name and address.
- Have the signer sign the entry. Take a thumbprint where your state requires it, for example for California real property documents and powers of attorney.

- Write the notarial fee and the travel fee on separate lines. Many states cap the notarial fee but not travel, so keeping them apart shows you stayed within the cap.
- If you refuse a notarization, record the reason in Notes.

Keeping it safe

- Store the journal in a locked place you control. Do not let anyone else use it.
- Report a lost or stolen journal to your commissioning office as your state requires.
- Keep it for as long as your state requires after the last entry, and follow your state's rules when your commission ends.

Not legal advice

- This template is a general form. Your state's statute and Secretary of State rules control what you must record. Check them at mobilenotarylist.com.
